LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The next English Mail, by the S. S. Thetis, may be expected to arrive here early before the 22nd inst. It brings London dates up to the 17th December.

The next American Mail, by the steamship Oceanic, may be expected here on or about the 21st inst.

The delivery of the French mail was begun at 9.10 this morning.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Hennessy will be present at the annual distribution of prizes at the Victoria School (Mr. and Mrs. Hanlon's) on Saturday afternoon.

From the L. & C. Express we learn that the Hongkong (s), from the Tyne to this port, and which was due to put into Plymouth on the 20th Nov., in a damaged state, has been placed in the Great Western Docks at Plymouth for repairs.

The Earl of Clarendon, who arrived here yesterday morning (8th) in the M. S. steamer Assam en route to England, dined at Government House, and drove with His Excellency in the afternoon to the Botanical Gardens. — Singapore Times.

Earlier we have been labouring under a mistake as to what Squadron the Earl of Clarendon commanded, or the Singapore Times must be wrong. It appears from our contemporary that "the Earl of Clarendon, who commanded the Dutch Squadron to Hongkong" has gone home by the Amazone.

Amongst the Military and Naval items in the Overland Mail, received here to-day, we read that Colonel F. L. Hall, R.A., is about to retire on pension. As there is no such name in the Army List we presume this is a misprint, and is intended to refer to Colonel Hall who left here by last mail for England on promotion, whose initials are L. F. (Lewis Frederick).

A shock of earthquake has been felt throughout Ceylon. The usual rattling of doors and shutters &c., occurred, but no damage was done. The Observer says that formerly they used to consider themselves free from this sort of thing, but the late shock has opened their eyes to the fact that they are not so safe as they believed they were.

Sir Harry Parkes, H.M. Minister to Japan, is a passenger by the Peiho. He is accompanied by his two daughters. We understand that his health is much improved. He proceeds to Yokohama in the Tanais to-morrow morning. Baron von Siebold, who has been recalled from the Japanese Legation at Berlin, to act as Secretary to His Excellency Mr. Inouye, during the revision of treaties, is also a passenger by the Peiho.

Another alarm of fire was raised yesterday evening by the upsetting of a kerosene lamp in a carpenter's shop, No. 15, Upper Lazarus Row. The occupant of the house however, with the assistance of the neighbours, succeeded in extinguishing the flames before they had got a sufficient hold to do more than a very trifling amount of damage. A fire in a locality of this description would be a serious matter, and the community has fortunately been spared a record of what might otherwise have been an extensive conflagration.

A MAIL Table has been issued as a supplement to the London & China Express, which professes to give the dates of departure from ports outward and homeward of the P. & O. and M. S. mail steamers for the first three months of the year. As this table is anything but correct, even on the basis of the present arrangement of Monday departures, it will be well if those who purpose using it shall first take the trouble to correct its many blunders. The present programme of departures from this end is merely a continuation of the Monday mails until further notice. By the time the moon-son necessitates a change of the day, the full table will doubtless have been received.

We take the following items from the British Arrow received here to-day by French Mail—Major Charles Tuckey, Gloucestershire Regiment (late 28th Foot), has been placed on retired pay, with the honorary rank of Lieutenant Colonel, 17th November, 1881. Staff Commander Stopford C. Tracey, who has been appointed to the Royal Adelaide, additional, served in the Amphion in engagements before and during the bombardment of Stenborg and at the taking of Donauwerk (Baltic Medal); landed with the Naval Brigade at the capture of Canton, and at the capture and destruction of Nantow, in the Canton River, for his services in connection therewith being awarded the China medal and the Canton clasp. Staff Captain H. D. Sarraz, who has been re-appointed to the Wye on promotion, was second mate of the Spartan, and was officially mentioned in despatches for his services against pirates at Chow Chow, and the destruction of a settlement in 1854; he served in the boats at an attack on pirates in the Bay of Coulan in November 1854, for which he was honourably mentioned and awarded a pension for wounds.

An autograph letter has been received by Mr. W. H. Ray from King Kalakaua, in which His Majesty informs that gentlemen that Colonel Judd would proceed to America in January next, the current month, on business for the Hawaiian Kingdom, and that instructions would be given to that effect to select a ship which His Majesty promised to send to Hongkong for competition at the next Race Meeting. The communication was brought on by the yacht Wanderer, and it will be submitted to the Stewards at an early date, who will determine the conditions under which it is to be competed for. The cup may possibly be a little late in its arrival here, but that it will come as promised we are assured by His Majesty's autograph, and as entries close on Saturday, the 28th inst., this announcement has arrived in ample time to admit of the necessary arrangements being made for including it amongst the trophies of 1882.

The following passengers were booked by outward steamers according to last mail's advice:—

Per Messageries Maritimes steamer Tromadour, from Marseilles, Dec. 25.—To Shanghai: Mr. Tagliabue.

Per Messageries Maritimes steamer Ninh, from Marseilles, Jan. 8, 1882.—To Shanghai: Mr. F. H. Montgomery.

Per Messageries Maritimes steamer Yonghe, from Marseilles, Jan. 22, 1882.—To Shanghai: Mr. and Mrs. Nevill May and two children. To Hongkong: Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Hubbe.

Per P. & O. steamer Brindisi, from Gravesend, Dec. 7.—To Yokohama: Staff Surgeon J. W. and Mrs. Fisher and three children, Mrs. McDonald. To Hongkong: Mrs. F. and Miss Durrant, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Comdr. R. Evans.

Per P. & O. steamer Taylor, from Venice, Dec. 16.—To Shanghai: Rev. A. and Mrs. Westwater, Dr. A. D. and Mrs. Westwater.

Per P. & O. steamer Tokoro, from Gravesend, Dec. 21.—To Hongkong: Miss Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Hall and two children.

Per steamer Glenroy from London, Dec. 3.—To Hongkong: Mr. A. Jackson.

Those who have been forwarding Christmas and New Year cards to the Old Country may be pleased to hear that there is now less risk of their being shagged to pieces for funnifying purposes than there was a few weeks ago. The following paragraph is from the London Times:—

"Representations having been made to the Postmaster-General by the Committee of Lloyd's that great delay had of late attended the transmission of the China and other mails landed at Naples by the French packets arriving there in quarantine, in consequence of the lengthy process of cutting and fumigating the correspondence, the Postmaster-General has issued instructions that these mails should be enclosed in tarred sacks at Suez, and it is hoped that their detention at Naples for the purpose of being fumigated will thus be avoided in future."

Private advices from Singapore lead us to believe that their Royal Highnesses Princes Albert Victor and George of Wales were to be received in that Colony in a very different style from that followed here in Hongkong. From the official programme it appears that the Princes landed soon after their arrival and proceeded to Government House as guests of H.E. the Governor, Sir Frederick Weld, while a series of festivities appropriate to such occasions were sketched out in a manner which throws a strange light upon the course of events which marked the stay of the Royal Midshipmen in this Colony. It is therefore being somewhat unpleasantly forced upon the minds of residents here that the rules which seemed to govern the movements of the young Princes while in this part of the world were applied to Hongkong for some special reasons; and, as is natural in view of the known loyalty of all classes of residents on the Island of Fragrant Streams, many explanations are given of this peculiar treatment. In the face of all that took place, and of all that did not happen, during the visit of the Princes to this Colony, it appears that there is something radically wrong somewhere; and that although Governor Hennessy, while attempting to do very great things to display the loyalty of all classes of residents, was not only cruelly disappointed in his hopes, but he is now painfully reminded of that circumstance by the marked contrast furnished by the recent proceedings in Singapore. As we have previously hinted, the naval examinations of the Royal Midshipmen could have had but little to do with the matter; and as there can be absolutely nothing laid at the door of the community, native or foreign, the awkward question arises,

What was the cause of the exceedingly guarded attitude of the Princes' guard-bodies? Probably the real reason will never be fully known; but that the community have evidently suffered a slight on account of the Officer who here represents Her Majesty there can be little doubt. That the people of Hongkong would have been treated in this way under another Governor, is beyond the bounds of probability.

Another organised armed attack on the peaceful inhabitants of one of the outlying villages of the colony is reported as having occurred last night. About eleven o'clock a band of fifteen desperadoes attacked a house in Mon Kok Tai and succeeded in carrying off money and clothing to the value of $70, and as the police had early intimation of the affair a party under Inspector Cameron proceeded to the spot and a smart fusillade ensued between them and the robbers, the villagers turning out and joining in the fray. The attacking party seem to have been remarkably well armed, better than is usually the case, but were so severely pressed that they found it necessary to take to the water, and the greater number of them effected their escape by swimming to the village of Tai Kok Tsi, on the other side of the bay. Four of the gang have been arrested and were brought before Mr. Wodehouse this morning. No evidence however was taken, and the case was simply called in court and remanded to enable the police to follow up certain clues in their possession with a view of effecting further captures. For the same reason we are as yet unable to give the detailed particulars of the attack.

Our Singapore contemporary, in commenting to the notice of Sir F. Weld the example of Sir John Pope Hennessy in supplying copies of the local Directory to Government offices, complains that no mention is made of the newspapers being similarly dealt with. The fact, however, is that the Government offices are supplied with copies of the different papers. Evidently our contemporary has his revenue in his view, and thinks that Government would make a more eligible debtor than the individual official. He says, in relation to the supply of newspapers to these offices:—

It is superfluous to point out how beneficial, intellectually and morally, this would be to all Officials, or how Government would thereby be promoting in a healthy manner local enterprise, but it is more germane to the matter here at all events, that it might be reasonably expected that newspapers would be paid more readily and easily than when officials have to pay them out of their own pockets.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WHY IS THIS "CHINA MAIL?"

To the Editor of the "China Mail."

VICTORIA, 19th Jan., 1882.
SIR,—Whenever I visit Hongkong I am struck by the beauty of the scenery, the progress made in the material prosperity of the town, the beauty of the ladies, and the comeliness of the charges made in the various shops. Lately I have derived no small satisfaction from the look of hopeless apathy to be observed in the faces of such articles. Calcutta has long been a place of a sign that Anglo-Saxons or British American "gentlemen" is still a match for the sly slyness of the "Heavenly Chinaman." But all my pleasure has been swept away by the arrival this morning of news from Singapore, and my object in addressing you is to ask the simple question: Why Hongkong, with its energy and resources, should have taken such a very backward step, as compared with Singapore, in the matter of one thing, the Royal Princes? I nearly cried with vexation on learning that their Royal Highnesses were to land as Royal Princes at Singapore, and to be received by a deputation with the innumerable address, and are actually going to stay for several days at Government House, where they are to be entertained with a fancy ball, and feasted with whatever is to be found edible in the Straits Settlements, which isn't very much. Moreover, there was to be a reception, where everyone may sit him or herself in the rays of royalty, and any respectable person may be invited to do so. I am sure that the hearts of even the most loyal British subject in Shanghai could desire. Why were similar arrangements not permitted here? Is the elevation, moral or otherwise, of Hongkong not equal to that of Singapore, or is there any danger connected with intercourse with the officials and people here, that the Princes were not to be entertained there any fear that their unguarded and guileless utterances, had they visited Sir John Pope Hennessy on the Hill, might have been somewhat misquoted in indifferent Chinese by the Government Interpreter Staff, to the edification of the Mandarins at Canton; or was there any suspicion that curiosity, so pernicious in youth, might have led to Royal enquiries as to the history of a somewhat famous but dissipated umbrella? Surely the Princes would have learned words of wisdom and have had "their eye-teeth cut," while being enlightened as to the mysteries of opium-farming and Macao lotteries by some of the Governor's witty and experienced friends. Nothing that Singapore can produce can but the illuminations here, culminating with the fiery torch which, it was reported along the Coast, ornamented the porch of Government House, "Magna est Veritas et prevalebit," and yet, in spite of all the fuss, excitement, loyalty, expense and preparation, the Royal Midshipmen were allowed only to have their portulaca taken, to shake hands with your worthy Governor, and— but the theme is too painful. Let me drop the curtain.

But why this "thunder" at Singapore? Is Sir Frederick Weld very superior to your exalted chief? and is not the Colonial Secretary there, a black sheep hooked out of the immediate flock of Hongkong? Is the Hon. Mr. Stenden, the indefatigable and unerring croak of Singapore, Hennessy? Is there anything superior in the Straits Settlements to what may be found here? I know not. Then who can explain this very humiliating partiality shown in the treatment of the two places by those who are "running" the Princes? I begin to think that Hongkong and its rulers must be in bad odour somewhere, and yet we know what profound harmony, peace and concord reign here from the highest to the lowest,—peace so profound that it has not been necessary to convulse the Legislative Council many months. Who can throw any true light on this subject?

VIATOR.

SUPREME COURT.

IN CRIMINAL SESSIONS.
(Before the Hon. Francis Stenden, Acting Chief Justice, with a Jury.)
Thursday, Jan. 19.

THE TAI TAM ARMED ATTACK.

The following jury were empanelled:—Messrs. John Allen, Wilson, James Korman, John Gaudin, J. M. Goss, F. W. Heurmann, and J. N. Gossman. The Attorney General (the Hon. E. L. O'Malley) prosecuted.

Lai Ah, Ng Aow, and Chun Atak were charged with burglariously entering Chan Afo's house in Tai-tan village, on the 27th November last, and with stealing therefrom certain property. The Attorney General said that, on the night of the 26th and 27th November, a house was broken into in Tai-tan village. One or two hours afterwards the first prisoner was met by the police, in company with some other persons, and as the circumstances under which the police encountered him appeared to be suspicious, he was arrested, and on being searched there was found in his possession some powder and bullets and some articles of clothing. This property would be proved to have been stolen from the house, and it would be shown that some other persons, who were brought before Mr. Wodehouse this morning, were similar to that found on the first prisoner. The evidence against the second prisoner would be, that on the day succeeding the burglary, when approached he had on his person a pair of trousers which would also be identified as having been stolen from the house. The second prisoner was also in the same house with the third, who had been previously identified as one of the parties concerned in the attack. On the occasion of this burglary a constable, in the discharge of his duty, was killed close to the house, killed under circumstances which would be proved to the jury, and it could be brought home to them, that charged murder would be substantiated. At present the Crown was in a position to establish proceedings in that direction, and it was in the interests of public justice not to prefer any charge which was not likely to be substantiated.

The evidence for the prosecution brought out the facts that on the night of the 26th November, a house, occupied by Chan Afo, in Tai-tan village was broken into by between 30 and 40 men, who were armed with spears and other weapons. The third prisoner was identified by Chan Afo as being the man who had stood over him with a sword and threatened to kill him during the time the party were ransacking the house. The servants of this man identified several pairs of trousers, which the police had found in the possession of the prisoners. The small shot found on the first prisoner, and those found in the room of the house, after the departure of the burglars, were compared and found to resemble each other very closely. The shot extracted from the body of the murdered constable was also found to strongly resemble the shot found on the first prisoner, and in the room of Chan Afo's house. One of the female servants also identified the third prisoner as one of the burglars.

The first prisoner said he was a wood-cutter and had the sword and other weapons for the purpose of protecting his property, and had brought them from his native place, whence he had come some short time ago, having failed in business there. He was not aware of the restrictions placed on carrying weapons. He denied being implicated in the attack. The second prisoner asserted that he only arrived in Hongkong on the 27th November, and had intended to proceed to Koi Shing, but found the boat had left. He then sought out lodgings, and was with the third prisoner when he was apprehended. The trousers, although worn by him, he claimed as his. The third prisoner, according to his statement, was an earth-cutter, and an honest hard-working man, who knew nothing about the matter at all.

His Lordship, in addressing the jury, said that this was perhaps one of the worst burglaries which had ever taken place in the Colony, but advised the jury not to allow the question of the number of the police to weigh too much on their minds, but simply to try the prisoners on the evidence before them. He had no doubt that they would not hesitate in coming to the decision that the were engaged in the burglary.

The jury, without retiring, found the three prisoners guilty of burglary.

The Attorney General said that he had some circumstances to lay before his Lordship which might affect the case previous to his giving sentence.

His Lordship said he did not intend to pronounce sentence at once.

Captain Deane said that last night one of the spectators had been very nearly killed in a case very much similar to the present; that these gangs of burglars were very frequently met with, and were most dangerous in their attacks on the Colony.

Police Intelligence.

(Before H. E. Wodehouse, Esq., Police Magistrate.)
Thursday, Jan. 19.

CHUN AKUM and FONG ABEUNG, coolies, were charged with being in possession of a diseased pig.

P. C. 196, Lai Ahn, said that he met the two prisoners at seven o'clock this morning carrying a basket in the Boshan Road. It was covered over with matting and when he enquired what they were carrying they said salt fish, but on examination it proved to be the carcass of a diseased pig. It had died from disease and the flesh was quite black.

Defendant said they had been engaged by some one to carry the pig to the steps at the back of Quince Theatre, but they did not get as far as the steps.

Fined $10 each, in default fourteen days imprisonment with hard labour.

George Hall, a seaman, was charged with being drunk and refusing to give jurisdiction here on the 18th inst.

Chung Ahn, a seaman, proved the case, and defendant was fined $10, in default 14 days imprisonment with hard labour.

A WOULD-BE PICKPOCKET.
Wong Atau, a fishmonger, was charged with attempting to pick the pocket of one Chung Ahn, on the 18th inst.

Chung Ahn, a seaman, proved the case, and defendant was fined $10, in default 14 days imprisonment with hard labour.

denly he felt some one meddling his pocket, and on turning sharply round he found defendant in the act of withdrawing his hand from his pocket. He seized the prisoner and gave him in charge of a constable.

Defendant said he only knocked against complainant accidentally; and he was given in charge. He also admitted four previous convictions during the last two years, two of which were for larceny.

Six months imprisonment with hard labour.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION.
Wong Asung, a hawker, was charged with the unlawful possession of two chop-saws, a kettle, and a child's jacket, on the 17th inst.

Defendant was arrested at five o'clock on the morning in Market Street with the articles enumerated in his possession. He was unable to give a satisfactory account of how he came by them and he was arrested. At the Charge Room he said he had picked them up in Tank Lane.

The constable had since made enquiries but was unable to find an owner for the things.

Prisoner denied any previous conviction although one was recorded against his name, of being found in a dwelling house at night for an unlawful purpose on the 30th September last.

Fined $10, in default three months imprisonment with hard labour.

MURDER.
Wong Akai, unemployed, Li Lok-Sai, a doctor, Lam Chung, a stone cutter, and Tsang Ahn, a gawdener, were charged this morning, with others not in custody, with burglariously entering the house of No. 8 Mong Kok Tai on the 18th inst., and stealing therefrom money and clothing to the value of $70.

Inspector Cameron, whose presence was required at the Criminal Sessions sitting in the Supreme Court, applied for a remand, and the enquiry into the case was accordingly adjourned till Tuesday morning, the 24th inst.

DRUGGING AN INTENDED VICTIM.
Chun Afoi, a married woman, and Chun Ayuk, a girl of fourteen, were charged with feloniously administering, or causing to be administered to one Wong Fung Hing, a certain stupefying and overpowering drug on the 18th inst., with intent to enable them to commit an indictable offence.

Mr. Moscop, of the firm of Dennys and Moscop, appeared for both prisoners.

Complainant's story was that two months ago she struck up an acquaintance with the prisoners through having noticed that a part of the house where she resided in Hollywood Road was to let. The younger prisoner had frequently brought an invitation to her to come and take tea with the elder prisoner at her house, and she had done so on two occasions. On the 14th inst. the first prisoner called on her and invited her to come to her house next day as she had important business to transact. She went the following day according to appointment and there found the two prisoners and an ayah. Shortly after she entered the house she drank a cup of tea, and then the two prisoners moved to the bedroom where she became faint and fell from the chair on which she had been sitting. The two prisoners and the ayah lifted her on to a bed and she remembered nothing more until she found herself on board the Canton steamer, in company with the first defendant and a man whom she had never seen before. She became faint and fell from the chair on which she had been sitting.
